

Marina V. Kondratovich, Ph.D., is an Associate Director for Clinical Studies, Personalized Medicine, Office of In Vitro Diagnostic Device Evaluation and Safety, CDRH, FDA. She graduated with a Ph.D. in Mathematical Statistics from the Department of Statistical Modeling at St. Petersburg State University in Russia. Before coming to FDA in 1999, she worked at universities in both Russia and the Ukraine. For 10 years, she provided statistical reviews for the diagnostic devices in Division of Biostatistics, CDRH; she moved to OIVD two years ago. She has been FDA spokesperson at multiple FDA Advisory Panel meetings; she is an active participant in CLSI standards development and in the ISO.