

Dr. Marina V. Kondratovich is an Associate Director for Clinical Studies, Personalized Medicine, in the Office of In Vitro Diagnostic and Radiological Health at the FDA, CDRH. She has been with the Agency for thirteen years. Some of her interests are personalized medicine tests, analytical evaluation of tests, design of clinical studies for diagnostic devices, missing data (as verification bias, multiple imputation). She has been FDA spokesperson at multiple FDA Advisory Panel meetings. She actively participates in CLSI standards development and in the ISO. Dr. Kondratovich received her Ph.D. in Mathematical Statistics from the Department of Statistical Modeling at St. Petersburg State University in Russia.